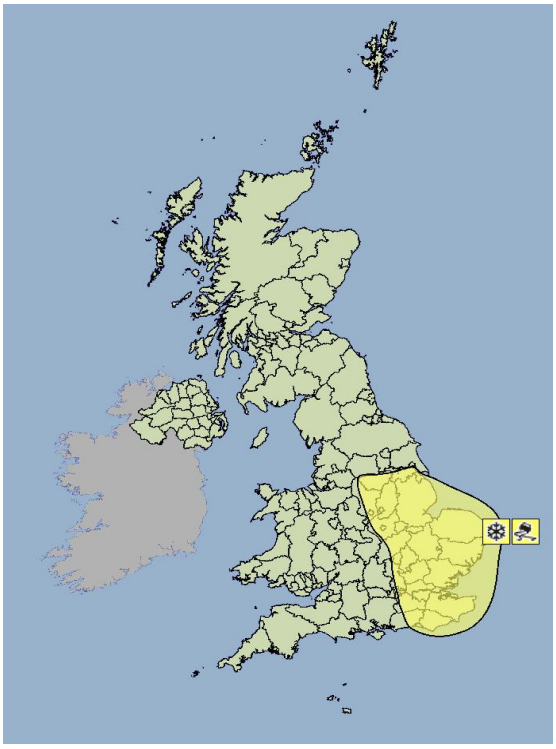
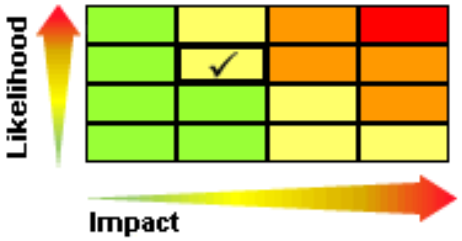
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Clear spells on Saturday evening and night will lead to an early frost. Wintry showers are expected to affect parts of Norfolk and the east of Suffolk and are likely to lead to more widespread icy stretches developing on untreated surfaces or surfaces where prior treatment is washed off.

Later on Saturday night and during Sunday morning more general rain, sleet and snow will spread across the area from the west and north. Some slight accumulations of snow are expected, 1 to 2 cm, mainly over higher ground above 150 m. This is also likely to lead to ice forming in places.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 16:00 on Sat, 14th Jan 2017 until 12:00 on Sun, 15th Jan 2017

Wintry showers are expected to affect parts of Norfolk and the east of Suffolk on Saturday evening and night. This will lead to icy stretches developing on untreated surfaces and where treatment is temporarily washed off of surfaces.

Later in the night and on Sunday morning an area of more general rain, sleet and snow is expected which will lead to icy stretches and perhaps some slight accumulations of snow.

There is a chance of difficult driving conditions on untreated roads and slippery conditions on pavements and cycle paths are possible.
